'A Lot of Fireworks' --Hub Spooner

Local Men Remember The Longest Day

William Miller was scared, John Farr was seasick and Hub Spooner was ready "to get it over with." It was June 6, 1944, 30 years ago today and the three were among 176,000 men taking part in the greatest invasion the world has ever seen. It was D-Day at Normandy.

Captain Miller was regimental adjutant who dropped with the 82nd Airborne Division into France before daylight and helped capture the first French town to fall to the allies, Ste. Mere-Eglise.

Spooner was a tank commander who landed on Omaha Easy Red Beach at H-H. The infantry was scheduled to land at 6 a.m. but Spooner and his four tanks, including Farr, who was his driver, were given the task of clearing beach obstacles 15 minutes earlier.

Four hours later, Farr was dead and Spooner was lying on the beach with two broken legs, waiting for transportation back to England and a hospital.

Today, Spooner is a prosperous Belle Glade farmer, whose son is named after Farr, and Miller is vice president and general manager of Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida Inc.'s sugar mill. Miller and Spooner were reminiscing this week about the Normandy invasion and the parts they played in it.

Spooner said he was the first married man in the Glades to be drafted during World War II and laughingly insists Luther Jones, a friend who was on the area selective service board, was the one who did it to him.

"I don't remember much about the invasion itself," he said. "I do know there was a hell of a lot of noise and fireworks."

Spooner said he had been detached from his company part of the 610th Engineers. He had been given command of four M-4 Sherman tanks armed with two machine guns and a 75 millimeter gun.

He had also, during the year he was in training in England, modified the tanks, waterproofing them so they could drive through the surf on the beaches of France, and equipping them with large bulldozer blades to clean up beach obstacles.

"The four tanks were loaded aboard two LCT's (Landing Craft Tanks)," Spooner said. "The LCT's had ramps on the bows that would drop down and they would land us about chest deep in the water."

"The tank that went off just before ours never got to the beach," he said. "A German shell hit it and killed everyone in it."

"A shell hit our tank too," he said. "It hit the stack but didn't go off, so we made it."

For four hours, Spooner and his tank worked around the beach, clearing obstacles and taking potshots at machine gun nests and pillboxes.

"There were men everywhere," he said. "The boats were so thick bringing them in you could have almost walked from one to the other down the line."

About four hours after he had landed, Spooner said his tank tracks became snarled in some cable and he and Farr were outside pulling the cable free when another tank just beside them was hit.

"An 88 hit it," he said. "It was about 15 feet away and then right after that, an 88 shell hit my tank."

"John landed on top of me," he said. "At first, I didn't even know I was hurt and when I shook him and told him to get off, he told me, 'I can't move a bone in my body.'"

Farr died a few minutes later, Spooner said, and he lay on the beach for about three hours, unable to move.

"The tide started coming in," he said, "and I thought I was going to drown. One old boy in the 29th Division probably saved my life."

He was the man, a Lt. Blyth who has formerly been in his unit, detailed four men to make sure Spooner was taken aboard a landing craft to be taken to one of the hospital ships laying offshore.

Meanwhile, at the time Spooner was landing on Easy Red, Miller had jumped behind German lines with the 507th Parachute Infantry Regiment.

"If you saw the movie 'The Longest Day,'" Miller said, "you might remember the outfit that landed in the village with the cathedral, where Red Buttons was hanging from the steeple? That was where I jumped."

Miller said the fields into which his unit jumped

Only on Trial Basis

South Bay to Keep Attorney

The South Bay City Commission decided on a narrow vote Tuesday night to keep City Attorney and Municipal Judge Allen Everard but only on a trial basis for the next three months.

Mayor Vernita Cox noted Everard had been absent from the preceding three commission meetings and she had specifically asked him to be present for Tuesday's meeting to discuss the city's continued retention of his services.

Everard commented it "is very difficult" for him to attend the regular commission meetings because he has to get up at 6:30 a.m. in order to handle his position as the city attorney of Riviera Beach.

"It's a long drive back over that road," Everard said, "particularly at night, and it's getting to be too much for me."

"There isn't that much legal work to do," he said, "but it's the physical endurance that's getting to be too much."

Mrs. Cox and Commissioner Esther Berry said they felt the attorney should be present at all commission meetings in order to field legal questions arising during the course of the meetings.

Everard said he didn't think there are that many legal questions during the meetings.

"We could just post someone anything that comes up during the meeting," he said, "and I could write an opinion on it."

He said he felt he could do a much better job for the city, also, if he were in closer touch with the commission.

The commissioners decided to continue with Everard's services for another three months on a trial basis, with Everard attending every other meeting, or one meeting per month.

During that time, he is expected to maintain close telephone contact with Mayor Cox.

When the matter came to a vote, Commissioners John Deaton, Woodrow "Woody" O'Neal and Neal Mayo voted to retain Everard on the trial basis and Mayor Cox and Miss Berry voted against it.

"There are times we need a legal opinion during meetings," Miss Berry said, "and when you're not here, we have to put off decisions and that throws us behind."

Mrs. Cox said the commissioners need Everard, not only in negotiations with engineers, but, "sometimes, the citizens get very demanding and we may not know what to tell them."

Under the circumstances, Mrs. Cox said, "maybe we should look into this. It may be in the best interests of the city to get someone who is closer to home."

Mayo asked Mrs. Cox and Miss Berry how many times Claude Jones, who is city attorney before Everard, attended meetings, "per year, not per month."

"When five grown people can't get together," Mayo said, "and make a decision they don't need to be city commissioners."

The city pays Everard a $200 per month legal fee, which includes his pay for attending two meetings per month, and another $150 for his duties as municipal judge.

McCurdy Gets GCHS

A federal judge Monday "relieved" the Palm Beach School Board of deciding on a replacement for Glades Central Principal Roy Carter by assigning the job to Lake Shore Principal Charles C. McCurdy.

U.S. District Judge Norman C. Roettger ordered the board and county school superintendent Joseph Carroll to install McCurdy as Glades Central High School Principal effective July 17.

The order, a temporary injunction enforcing an earlier decision by Roettger, which is under appeal in the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans, was largely based on a Macon County Georgia decision.

Roettger also ordered the school board to pay McCurdy $3,641 in back pay as the difference between a junior high school principal's wages and a senior high school principal's wages for the past three years.

Roettger swept aside Carroll's contention McCurdy is incompetent to handle the senior high school, saying he has received satisfactory ratings for the past 28 years, only to earn an unsatisfactory rating for the 1973-74 school year.

The judge also ordered the

Wee Care Needs $7,000

Wee Care fund raising chairman Lee Cranford said the center still needs $7,000 to fill the gap between what is needed in local donations and what is on hand to meet the 1974-75 budget.

Cranford said the Wee Care Center board of directors has already filed application for $85,000 of state and federal funding for the coming year but this is based on a total of $26,000 in local contributions.

Providing the $7,000 is raised, the $85,000 should be little more than a formality to keep the center in operation at present standards for the coming year.

Mrs. R.V. Allen, Wee Care Chairman, said the $974-75 budget has been made out of $113,000 and the local fund drive was hoped to have raised the local donations by now.

for a total of $350 per month. In other business, the commission:

Donated $200 toward the Summer Enrichment program at Rosewald Elementary, following a recommendation the city double its traditional donation since Rosewald is the only school in the city limits participating in the program this year.

In the past, South Bay Elementary has also been involved in the program.

Moved to pick up the tab, temporarily, to supply the newly-formed South Bay Housing Authority with the services of Mrs. Betty White, a secretary at the rate of $10 per meeting.

Vice-Mayor John Deaton moved the city should grant the request of authority vice-chairman Mary Waters until the authority receives its own funding.

Granted permission to insure policies to city employees. Holmgren said the insurance Co. is meant to supplement Workers Compensation.

He said a monthly premium of $6.50 would provide employees with $300 per month if they're injured and have to remain home, $1,100 if they're in the hospital, a $1,000 and $10,000 life coverage and emergency room coverage.

The commission also agreed to make another monthly contribution to the Palm Beach County Community Action Council's Meals on Wheels program.

When Lake Shore was made a junior high school, McCurdy was named to that post while Roy Carter was hired to take over as head of Glades Central.

Visit Disney World Courtesy of Herald

You and your family can win a free trip valued to over $450 to Walt Disney World in the Belle Glade Herald's special Walt Disney World summer shopping special.

You may also win one of eight other special prizes.

The trip includes room and board at the beautiful Royal Inn in Lake Buena Vista located only 15 minutes from Walt Disney World. Walt Disney World is going to provide you with tickets to see all of their many attractions and Connell's Standard Service station in Belle Glade is even going to chip in a tank of gas to get you there.

Here is how it works. Eight local merchants are sponsoring this summer shopping special. They are Glades Gas, Royals, Lake Hardware, This 'N That, Grants, Whites Auto, Western Auto, and Hollingsworth Shoes.

Entry blanks are available at all eight of these locations. All you have to do is go down to these stores and fill in an entry blank with your name, address, and telephone number. Each person is limited to one entry blank per day, per location.

Now, here is the extra bonus you get for entering at all of the locations once each day. Every week during the eight-week summer shopping special a drawing will be held of those people who have registered that week only.

All of the registration forms which have been completed will be collected every Friday morning and put into a big box. One name will be pulled out of this box and a weekly prize from one of the merchants will be awarded.

All of the names, including the weekly winners will be kept in a safe at The Belle Glade Herald. Then at the end of the eight weeks of the summer shopping special all of the names will be placed in a large box and grand prize winner will be drawn.

That grand prize winner will win the free trip to Walt Disney World and the stay at the beautiful Royal Inn.

So it is to your advantage to register every day at all of the participating merchants. Once a person has won a weekly prize he is no longer eligible for another weekly prize.

However, every registration will be placed in the pot for the grand prize drawing.

So register often and early—and who knows—you might win a free trip to Walt Disney World for you and your family.

Employees and their families at the eight participating merchants, Connell's Standard and The Belle Glade Herald are not eligible for the contest.

Mother of Year Earns Dinner

Belle Glade Herald Mother of the Year Mrs. Wilma Scruggs was the guest of honor last week as she and her family enjoyed a belated Mother's Day dinner at the Belle Glade Holiday Inn. The meal came about as a one of a number of prizes in a Mother of the Year contest won by her 9-year old daughter, Tammy. Contest judges felt Tammy wrote the best reasons of why her mother deserves the title.

Support Wee Care

Wee Care provides a service for this community which we would miss very much if it should cease to function.

It's sort of like the old song about "You Never Miss the Water Till the Well Runs Dry." Many times we take vital organizations for granted. We don't stop and think what we would do without them.

For those who are not completely familiar with Wee Care, it is a day care center for the children of working mothers. It charges a fee on a sliding scale according to what the mother earns. Some it charges nothing at all.

In reality, it provides more revenue for Belle Glade. It allows these working mothers to work. They bring home a paycheck rather than collecting one from welfare.

Right now Wee Care is short $7,000 on its annual fund drive. With another $7,000 Wee Care will reach its goal of $25,000. That $25,000 will bring in $113,000 in matching federal and state funds.

Won't you please care enough to help so that Wee Care can care for the wee ones.

Stop the Trucks!

Dear Sir: When I came to Belle Glade nearly nine years ago, Belle Glade was little more than a seasonal, transient type town. Many residents may still recall that most business establishments were closed on Wednesday afternoon. Not so, now.

Today, Belle Glade is bursting at the seams, with thousands of new and permanent residents. With this influx and progress we are also suffering its side effects.

In my opinion, one of the most urgent problems to be corrected is that of the heavy vehicle moving through our residential streets. These are namely semi-trucks, heavy trucks, large open backed produce trucks, and farm labor transportation vehicles.

Our narrow residential streets are not constructed to take this heavy traffic. The street upon which I live has been repaired and resurfaced along its edges, twice this year alone, due, I believe, to the type of traffic it has endured.

After several complaints to the Police Department, our street was finally posted against semi-trucks. This is NO solution. I firmly believe that all residents in all residential sections of Belle Glade should be reasonably protected by and from society in this instance.

I therefore offer this possible solution to the "powers that be" in Belle Glade. The erecting of "No Through Traffic in Residential Areas within City Limits," signs be posted at suitable points along access roads to Belle Glade. This would include State Road 80, Hwy. 441, and Hwy. 715. Another possible solution is the mapping out and posting of a truck route for all heavy duty vehicles to use.

The death of any one of our children and its possible repercussions due to this problem, is too steep a price to pay for the so-called "convenience" of this type of vehicle.

If you are a truly concerned citizen and wish to improve Belle Glade, COMPLAIN!

Call your Mayor and offer your views; call the City Manager and the police authorities every time one of these vehicles intrudes upon your safety. Call your ward councilman and ask for stronger ordinances.

This is the only way our elected officials can know what we want, and it is the very basis of our democracy. Mrs. Linda Soto.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

I'm writing these few lines to say hello and to ask you for a favor. Please publish what I would like to express, my deepest thanks to Mr. William Grear, supervisor of Wee Care Center, and his staff, for doing such a wonderful job with the children and providing them with good care and love.

I think he deserves some credit for this. I also think that everyone should try to help and do share to help all these nice people at the Wee Care. Please, help the United Way.

I think the Wee Care is a very nice place for children and as long as they have a man like Mr. Grear, they got it made, cause he sure knows us and how to run this place.

He is a wonderful person and May 22, 1974 was a very lovely evening. Thank you, Mr. Grear, for all you have done for these children at the Wee Care. God bless you for it.

Come on, people, pitch in. Remember, every little bit helps.

An aloe plant can live for two or three years without water or earth!

Dear Sir:

Your front page write-up on the tragic death of Sherri Smith was cruel and tasteless. Ninety per cent of the information was completely unnecessary. An article like that might be expected in a scandal sheet, but not in a small town newspaper. You have not informed your readers of a sad event. Instead, you have pondered to the bored, filled with the curious, and gossiped over the back fence.

Part of the article even sounds like a take off on a Perry Mason show. Was it really necessary to give a play-by-play description of her last moments?

Belle Glade and Pahokee are small communities. When a neighbor is hurt the community is hurt. No one stands alone or falls alone. It is too late to prevent this tragedy, but adding to the pain and sorrow of the bereaved family is inhuman.

If the article was written in "Pahokee" by a "Toledo" I suggest he check the manner in which the "Everglades Observer" handled the signed report. In fact, the writer of the story was complimented by an official from the sheriff's department for following the facts so closely.

Believe you me, we would rather write all "Cracker Crumb" type stories. But unfortunately he isn't like that. Our responsibility to the public is to report the facts as they happen as objectively as possible. I feel we did this in the Smith case.

Very truly yours,
Beth Wilkinson
(Mrs. Harold B. Wilkinson)

Dear Sir:

I feel some compulsion to comment on the tasteless manner in which you reported the death of Sherri Walker Smith on the front page of this week's edition.

Your ray description of the many details would have, more appropriate in, let us say, the "Police Gazette" but not in the down home "Cracker Crumb" format to which we have become fondly accustomed.

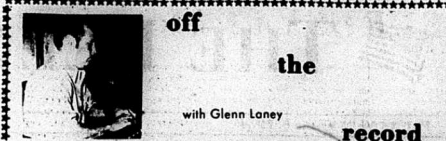

The pain of "grisy" death is certainly not softened by grisly reporting.

Sincerely,
Cecil Greig

[Ed. Note] Dear Mr. Greig: We thank you for your letter and we appreciate your comments.

However, if you would go down to the sheriff's office in Belle Glade and look at their official report, you would find that we did not mention but report in a factual manner what the sheriff's department's statement reflects. In fact, the writer of the story was complimented by an official from the sheriff's department for following the facts so closely.

Believe you me, we would rather write all "Cracker Crumb" type stories. But unfortunately he isn't like that. Our responsibility to the public is to report the facts as they happen as objectively as possible. I feel we did this in the Smith case.

The year is almost half over—and where did it go to.

It seems like only yesterday we had the office New Year's Party. And surely three months haven't gone by since St. Patrick's day.

But it's June already and people in Belle Glade are thinking about leaving and going to the mountains. Others are trying to decide whether to close on Wednesday afternoon or not.

It used to be, so one long time resident was saying just the other day, that you could go out on Main St. and shoot a .22 rifle in either direction and nobody would hear it.

Times are a changing, though. Now there's that little bit of hesitancy. The town isn't getting as dead during the summer as it used to.

For instance, the crops are picked and the agricultural season is over. But the sugar mill building is still going on and will continue to do so right through the summer.

Quaker Oats is still going ahead full steam. Everglades Federal will keep a bunch of people busy during the summer and well into next spring and B.D. Cole's new office is far from finished.

All of these construction jobs provide payrolls for the community. These payrolls make the economy more viable during the summer months than is normal.

One of the things Belle Glade desperately needs to make it a more attractive place to live is a year-round economy. Not only does a year-round economy help the people already here, it creates demands for new people who need new employees thereby creating new jobs.

We are slowly approaching that. Once we do I feel the growth of this town will really take off.

I wrote last week's editorial on sewer before the last complications a

It has become even more ludicrous. Now the pollution control boys are telling the city it can't build a sewer plant in the northeast section of town.

Now, when you check with them they say that isn't what they meant. But when you have them repeat it for you it damn sure sounds like it.

D-Day Plus 30 Years

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Sometimes a newspaper man can get involved more in a story than he normally would and it becomes a personal thing.

I had one like that this week. You may have noticed the young epic I did on the front page on the Normandy invasion.

As Hub Spooner said, I don't think anyone really thinks about or remembers that anymore but sometimes it's a good idea to reflect a little about the national past.

That's probably where the greatest part of patriotism is born and I guess I'm old fashioned enough to believe it's not a sin to be American. Matter of fact, I'm even a little proud of it, shocking as that may seem to some people.

That's one of the reasons I did the article. The Normandy invasion was one of the greatest tasks this nation has ever undertaken and it's a little awesome and pride-inspiring.

Consider the job involved in gathering the more than 4,000 ships, 2,876,000 men and 2.5 million tons of supplies involved and the logistics alone are mind-boggling.

But when you get to the personal viewpoint of individuals, that's when it can really reach you.

I was surprised to find there are so many men living in the Glades who took part in D-Day but, besides Spooner and Miller, I understand three or four others in the area, including former South Bay Mayor O'Neal Walker, were there.

But one of the personal viewpoints I heard several years ago could be one of the more enlightening accounts I've heard about what has been called the longest day.

While I was in the Air Force in Germany, I met another man who was on Omaha Beach, except he was facing the water, not the mainland of France.

At the time, he said he was an infantryman in the German Wehrmacht and I remember that when I was talking to him, it was the popular thing among authors and movie producers to put down the American soldier during World War II as inept, bumbling and not overly endowed with courage.

I don't remember this German's name, but he said his memories of D-Day weren't exactly those of facing a bunch of congenial idiots afraid of their own shadows.

They must have. Bill said his regiment jumped into France with 258 officers and 26 days later, only 27 to 28 officers were still living.

Somebody believed in something.

How about the rains we've been getting lately? I do believe the dry season is over but I sure hope we're not in for the kind of rains we've been getting the past few days on a regular basis.

The last couple of days, you could almost use the 5:30 rains to set your watch any time when they came, it was like the bottom of the sky dropping out.

Seeing catfish swimming along the gutters of Main Street wasn't so bad but when a pair of ducks tried to take shelter in the Herald office Tuesday afternoon, I figured that was too much.

He said he remembered, more than anything else, how the invading troops would be cut down only to have others take their places on the wide beach where every inch had been homed in on by German guns.

He said he ended the war in a POW camp in Texas, one of the first Germans to surrender during the invasion.

He was an oddity though. He happened to be the only German I met during three years in that country to admit to having fought on the western front.

His story jibes pretty much with what Bill Miller told me. Bill said the people then felt they had a reason for being where they were and doing what they were doing.

This is on top of the fact that our current plant is considered inadequate by the sewer powers that be. And the complications which must be gone through just to get one sewer connection under the current rules is assinine.

It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to understand them and even then I'm not sure.

I think we ought to do what one local official suggested in a moment of anger and frustration. He said we ought to get a reputable engineering firm in here to prepare the drawings for a top notch sewer plant, build the (adjective omitted) plant and dare the stupid (expletive deleted) to come in and stop us. Use the police to keep them out if need be.

It may one day have to come to that.

We've had about a half dozen phone calls and a couple letters about our handling of the Smith suicide in Pahokee last week. This is quite a bit of reaction to one story, so I thought I would mention what went into the coverage in this column.

First, if you are a steady reader of this paper you very seldom see any police stories in it, let alone at the top of the front page.

But this one was out of the ordinary. The woman was the daughter of a prominent man; she had tried to commit suicide at least twice before and she killed herself less than 24 hours before our paper was to get on the stands.

All of this combined to dictate the type play we would give the story. As for the story itself, all it was a recital of what the sheriff's deputy had on his official report as read to us by a sheriff's deputy.

We are certainly sorry for the family in this time of grief. But we were only living up to our responsibility as a newspaper to report the facts as they happened.

We appreciate you calls and letters, though. It shows you are reading the newspaper and thinking about what appears in it. Please don't hesitate in the future to call us again if there is something you don't like, don't understand or even like in the paper.

SURLEPAT Stops Entry

From Colombia, Jamaica, the Yucatan Peninsula and Haiti they come: the dope runners, the smugglers...and the refugees. Their goal: the coastline haven of the Florida mainland. For those running contraband, the rewards are monetary and immediate. For the refugees, the slim chance exists for a new beginning, a new life.

From the sprawl that is greater Miami, they go: the intense and Castro Cuban Americans with grandiose plans of revenge. Their goal: to inflict terrorist damage to Fidel Castro and his iron grip on their homeland.

And from every city and village in every Caribbean port another breed of men set out: the fishermen, the lobstermen, the shrimpers. Their goal: a livelihood. Their obstacle and their danger: the strictly enforced territorial and fishing limits of each country.

The Gulf of Mexico, the Straits of Florida, the Gulf Stream and the waters surrounding the Bahamas: this area today is as extremely sensitive and as potentially explosive as any in the world.

The agency charged with protecting our country's interests and enforcing our country's laws in the area is the United States Coast Guard. Coast Guard cutters ply the waters off Florida's west coast, through the Keys and the Straits and up the Gold Coast enforcing customs and treaties laws. These patrols, called Surface Law Enforcement Patrols (SURLEPAT) began in June 1973, but their history goes back somewhat further.

In 1959, the first beginnings of the great Cuban Refugee Exodus started. The Coast Guard, acting in its usual humanitarian role, began routine patrols to aid and rescue the disillusioned, frightened and angry refugees. From a trickle in 1959 to a high of nearly 6,000 in 1965, the Coast Guard was there to bring the fleeing Cubans to Southern Florida.

For a lot of them in these earlier years, there was no thought of permanently living in the United States.

The Coast Guard established what was then called the Cay Sal Bank Patrol to prevent using the Bahamas as a stepping off point for a counter revolution for it was soon determined that refugees from Miami were spiriting guns and supplies to the Cay Sal Bank area.

Then, like now, the mere presence of the white cutters, were in most instances, enough to prevent these mini-invasions. Those that "escaped the patrol" and returned to Cuba with counter revolutionary intent usually met with disaster.

By 1971, though, the refugees decreased to a trickle and the formal patrol was suspended. Units normally operating near the Cay Sal Banks were alerted to keep an eye on the area whenever in the vicinity.

In March, 1973, however, a "Memo of Understanding" was signed between the United States and Cuba. The agreement called for Cuba to return all hijacked planes, crews and passengers unharmed to the U.S. In return, this government would not harbor any refugees who had used violence or had stolen a vessel in order to reach our shores. The Department of State tasked the Coast Guard with the duty of enforcing the intent of this agreement. The SURLEPAT was established and these vessels now not only aid and rescue refugees, but they must ascertain the legality of the flight.

Another part of the "Memo of Understanding" stipulates that "Each party shall try with a view to severe punishment...any person who within its territory...carries out unlawful acts in the territory of the other party."

The Coast Guard is empowered to stop and search all U.S. vessels that may be carrying automatic weapons or munitions and halt their voyages.

PACKING AND SHIPPING MADE EASY

Packing needn't be a problem if you follow these simple tips:

1. Make sure all baggage is properly tagged. This means it should have both address tag and an address label.

2. Print your name and complete destination address and complete return address on each tag and label. Tags and labels should also carry the declared value of your shipment.

3. Label the inside of trunks, suitcases etc., with your complete name and return address.

4. Double-check to make sure each trunk and bag is carefully locked.

5. Make sure all breakable items are completely wrapped either with newspaper or other packing material. Also make sure there is extra packing material between breakable items.

Longest Day

Had been flooded two days before and because the allies didn't want to draw attention to the area, no airplanes had been over it since the flooding.

"Most of us landed in a foot or two of water," he said. "Some of the men drowned but I was lucky enough not to land in deep water."

"One of the main things I remember," he said, "is that we were widely separated and we just joined up into a lot of Cox's Armies."

"There might be a group of a dozen or so men led by a sergeant," he said, "and they might meet and join another group of a dozen men led by a full colonel."

Miller said one of the funniest things he remembers concerns the passwords and countersigns issued the men. The night of the landing, one soldier was supposed to give the password "Victory," receive the answer, "Thunder" and answer back, "Welcome".

"The idea," Miller said, "was that if the Germans tried to pronounce them, they'd come up with 'Victory, toonder and welcome' but they were 'appropriate for that night too."

"There were a lot of cows in the fields," he said, "and the men were so scared and broken up and the cows made so much noise, there were men all over the

"Back then," he said, "people were different. We were more gung ho and we really cared for this country. We felt we had a reason for being there and doing what we were doing."

"Back then," Miller observed, "you had Rosie and Riveter. Now, what do you have? People aren't as patriotic and I don't know why but I don't think it's for the better."

Spooner commented several times the men in his unit, made up of 90 Floridians and 110 Tennesseans, learned as they went along.

"While we were in England," he said, "they gave me those four tanks and told me to tear them apart, put 'em back together and tear 'em apart again. Then waterproof 'em and de-waterproof 'em."

"I didn't know a thing about tanks before that," he said, "and neither did anyone else, but we learned."

Spooner said members of his former unit have been holding annual reunions over the past ten years, meeting the past several years in Georgia. He said the next reunion will be June 23 at the Holiday Inn in Cordele, Ga.

Spooner said he was surprised, however, that anyone had thought about that day on the coast of Normandy 30 years ago.

"I didn't think anyone remembered that anymore," place giving all three passwords together."

Miller said he was in continuous action for 26 days after landing and later took part in the Battle of the Bulge and jumped once more with the 17th Airborne Division behind the Rhein River.

He said a recent television program on the invasion, "really brought back a lot of old memories" and added he feels the country has changed considerably since World War II.

HUB SPOONER LANDED ON OMAHA AT H-15 ...to help begin history's greatest invasion attempt.

Rev. Springer Accepts Call to St. Peter's Lutheran Church

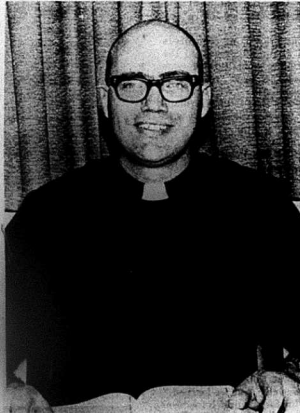

The Rev. Norman R. Springer of Inverness has accepted the call to St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Belle Glade and will be installed as minister of this congregation in a special service at 4 p.m. June 9.

The rite of installation will be performed by the Rev. Robert Klemm of Delray Beach and Circuit Counselor for Lutheran Churches in the area. The installation sermon will be preached by The Rev. Eugene Krug of Boca Raton, vice-president of the Florida Georgia District of the Lutheran Church. Other ministers from the area will also part in the service and ceremony.

The installation will be at the church at 601 West Canal Street in Belle Glade. After the service a reception for the new minister will be held on the church lawn.

Pastor James Mack, well known in this community, was the pastor for St. Peter's congregation until he accepted a call to a congregation in North Miami. During the interim the congregation has been served by Chaplain Arthur M. Senne of West Palm Beach.

Rev. Springer, youngest of four children, was born to

Christian Scientists Hold Meeting

Today's need for moral integrity is "one of the most obvious urgencies in our society," Christian Scientists from many countries were told at the denomination's Annual Meeting in Boston June 3.

"No nation could long prosper while drifting into a miasma of moral blindness, public and private," DeWitt John, the new Chairman of The Christian Science Board of Directors, declared.

"Divine Principle (God) is the real source of integrity and justice for every nation," he said, "and our individual adherence to Principle is a powerful help in demonstrating God's government among men." More than 6,500 members of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, were on hand.

According to Mrs. Jane R. Dougherty, the Assistant Committee on Publication for Belle Glade, a number of the members were from the Palm Beach County area including Mr. and Mrs. Don Dougherty. Some of them viewed the newly-completed Church Center for the first time.

Mr. John told the gathering that there is an answer to the widespread confusion in the world.

"At the heart of all of today's needs," he said, "is the need for spiritualization of thought. Undestroyed materialism is what would prevent healing... and reduce society to confusion."

Quoting from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, who discovered and founded Christian Science, Mr. John said: "Honesty is spiritual power. Dishonesty is human weakness, which forfeits divine help."

He added, "This has been the clear teaching of Christian Science from the beginning... we all know that the practice of honesty begins with ourselves... with the thinking and action of every individual, in our business and professional life, in guiding and instructing our children, in all our human relationships."

VBS to Begin in June

Vacation Bible School will be conducted at St. Peter's Lutheran School every morning Monday through Friday, June 17-21 according to School principal, Roy Wenzel.

Wenzel said the classes will be following the general theme, "God's People Today". The class sessions will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. daily. Classes will be offered for the four year old group through the eight grade level.

"All are most welcome to join with us at our VBS," Wenzel said. "Classes are scheduled to be held at the church location at 601 West Canal St., North."

Group to Sing

Belle Glade Baptist Center Pastor Paul W. Murray said a special group of singers from the Brunswick Baptist Church of Lanania will present a concert Sunday morning.

"They will sing and also give their testimony of what God has done for them," Rev. Murray said. "Everyone is welcome to attend these services."

By Michael A. Gaidin, Minister, Georgia

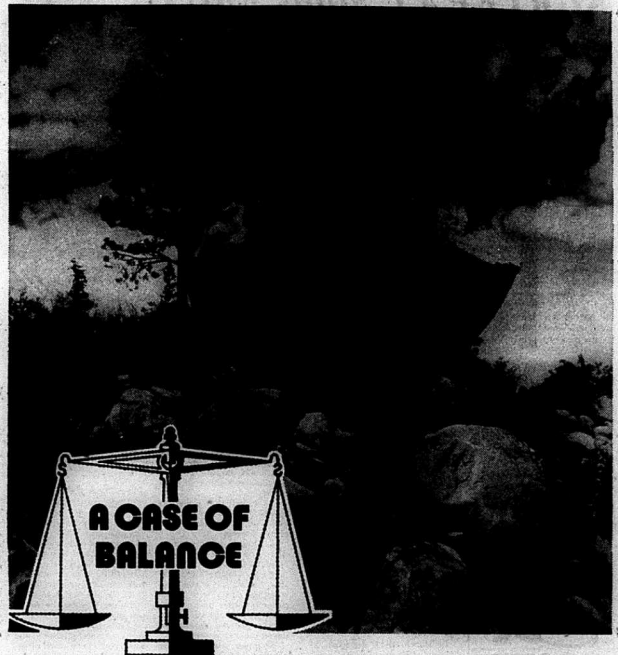

A boy quarreled with his playmates and went home in a huff. "I don't need them," he cried. "I don't need anyone. I can play by myself."

"Go out and play on your tester-totter by yourself." Life is a tester-totter. Everyone needs friends. And whatever the number of friends one may have, there will still be times when he has one too few.

But we must choose wisely our companions, for they more than anything or anyone make us what we are. An old adage reads, "Tell me whom you are with, and I will tell you what you are."

We are not like fish which retain their freshness in salt water, or like roses which preserve their fragrance among foul-smelling weeds. We are influenced by others. And we are more apt to catch the vices of others than their virtues, as disease is more contagious than health. So let us shut our companions. No one who is a foe to the Lord and His Word can be a good friend to man.

Long ago a wise man said in Psalm 119-63, "I am a companion of all them that fear Thee, and of them that keep Thy precepts." Why not join this company?

You don't have to be a scientist to realize that these tons of rock are held in check by perfect balance. You wouldn't want to be sitting nearby if they weren't!

This kind of balance results in inertia. There is another state of being that results in sound initiative and worthwhile action.

You've heard men speak of a balanced background, a balanced education, a balanced life. They're usually referring to the fact that no important element has been ignored or neglected.

Religious sincerity is one necessity for this kind of balance. It cannot take the place of any of the other essentials. Nor can anything else take its place.

The Church is constantly helping us gain—and keep—our balance!

Sorority Has Speaker

Mrs. Betty Thiebaud made a second annual visit to Mu Upsilon Sorority in the home of member Mrs. Davene Bailey. Mrs. Thiebaud presented a first person lookbook review of the paper, "P.S. You're Not Late," by Eleanor "Mrs. Bill" Ogle.

Sorority members said they felt Mrs. Craig's very presence as Mrs. Thiebaud described how this teacher became interested in emotionally disturbed children and began a new challenge in transitional classroom.

Beginning with two boys of opposite temperaments, members learned the background and interrelationship of the children sent to this school and also the activity of a typical day.

Mrs. Craig suffered many ups and downs in her job but was well pleased to realize that after some 28 children came under her tutelage, only one child needed to be placed in an institution.

All the others returned to a normal school situation with at least their major problems straightened out by their dedicated teacher.

Mu Upsilon members enjoyed this program by Mrs. Thiebaud and asked her to return at a future date.

A regular business meeting followed, presided over by Mrs. Carol Zumpf. Mrs. Marsha Oren reported the final social event of the 1973-74 year held May 19 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Varnell, was a huge success.

Only two members and their families were unable to attend the hamburger cookout which followed one of the longest volley ball games ever played. The children enjoyed the sandbox, swing set and other yard toys.

Mrs. Oren "tested" the members on their pictorial knowledge of sorority members and socials. While assembling this year's chapter scrapbook, Marsha accumulated 25 photo scraps such as drapes, feet, centerpieces and "behinds" which she passed around so members could guess who or what it was.

This was amusing and showed that some girls had very good recall. No one got them all right.

Social chairman, Mrs. Dorinda Shuts, announced a Coke party at Sponsor Dot Averly's home, a "1950's" party at the Episcopal Social Hall and a July "unbirthday party" were upcoming events.

Other new committee chairmen will be organized over the next week.

Mrs. Zumpf announced she and her husband would be representing Mu Upsilon at the 1974 Beta Sigma Phi Florida Convention held in Clearwater. Others attending are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shuts, Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson, Ariha Keene and Marsh Oren.

This meeting was the last one for Mrs. Cheryl Henderson with Mu Upsilon of Belle Glade as the Hendersons are moving to West Palm Beach in June.

All Beta Sigma Phi sisters wish them the best of luck in their new home.

Strawberry shortcake was served by the hostess, Mrs. Davene Bailey.

Club Presents Clothing

clothing donated by the Juniors last week. The Habilitation Center has the aim of teaching handicapped persons make a place for themselves in the world.

Teacher Surprised

A Christian Day School teacher was the surprise guest of honor Friday at a bridal shower given by her third grade students and other Christian Day teachers.

The students surprised Miss Martha Tanis, the bride-elect of Mike Foster, at the school after normal school hours.

Miss Tanis received many useful items from her students' according to Mrs. Wilma Western, including a rolling pin, for use if Mr. Foster ever gets naughty.

Refreshments served included punch and cup cakes decorated with yellow and white daisies.

Adults and teachers helping the students were Mrs. J. Connell, Mrs. A. Keene, Mrs. John Frevatt, Mrs. Betty Harris, Mrs. Francis Nelm, Miss Phillips, Mrs. Western, Mrs. Crow, Miss Jan Bottoms and Mr. Treadway.

Miss Thiebaud to Graduate

On June 7, Miss Cynthia Jane Thiebaud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Thiebaud of 816 N.W. 4th St., will graduate from Florida State University with a Master of Science Degree in Clinical and Professional Services.

While attending FSU Cynthia was active in the Pi Beta Phi Sorority, served as Secretary, and President of Panhellenic, was chosen First Lady of Panhellenic 1973 and initiated into Mortar Board, the Junior Women's Honorary.

She participated in the service organization, Garnet

Key, and the FSU Hostess organization, Village Vamps, and served on numerous university committees.

Scholastically, Cynthia remained on the Dean's List and will graduate Cum Laude.

Currently Cynthia is planning fulltime employment with the State Department of Education in the Bureau of Exceptional Students. In the fall, she hopes to remain in the Tallahassee area, teaching elementary school age Emotionally Disturbed and Learning Disabled children in a Resource Room.

Newly Elected Officers

Pictured at the March of Dimes Annual Awards dinner is Robert Russell, vice president of the National Foundation March of Dimes in charge of Chapters. With Russell are newly elected officers of the local chapter, Michael Chason, chairman, Mrs. Rena Echols of Belle Glade, vice chairman and Hugh Brinkley, vice chairman. It was announced during the meeting two new Medical Service Programs sponsored by the March of Dimes would be under way in June. These programs, the birth defect centers, the Genetic Counseling Center and many research projects in the field of birth defects will profit from the $150,000 raised in the county this year.

MISS CONNELL ENGAGED TO JESSE WOMACK ... she is a 1974 graduate of Christian Day School.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn D. Connell of 900 S.E. First St. in Belle Glade announced this week the engagement of their daughter, Marsha Kay, to Jesse Martin Womack of 208 N.W. Ave. F.

Womack is the son of James Howard Womack of Jennings. The bride-elect is a 1974 graduate of Christian Day School and is currently employed in the water department of the City of Belle Glade.

The groom-elect is a 1968 graduate of Wewahatchika High School in Wewahatchika. He attended Florida Medical College in Miami where he received an associates degree in laboratory science and medical science.

He is now employed as a fireman at the Belle Glade Fire Department.

Grandmother Beats Grad

It was a race but Mrs. Francis Miner, became a grandmother before she became a college graduate, ending a 35-year quest for her sheepskin.

Mrs. Miner, who lives at 169 N.E. Third St., said she began her college career at East Carolina Teacher's College, NOW East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C. in 1939. She will step up to receive her bachelor of arts degree in social welfare Sunday during commencement exercises at Florida Atlantic University, and one member of the audience will be Christopher Michael Mathis, her first grandchild, born May 23. Of course, she hasn't spent the last 35 years in college. She said she began attending Palm Beach Junior College classes in the social sciences in 1968-69.

taking them as they became. Then two years ago, she realized she almost had enough credits between East Carolina and PRJC to enter FAU, where she has completed her junior and senior years in the usual time span.

Mrs. Miner said she worked for the past several years as a substitute teacher in the Glades but for the past three months, she has been working as an intern social worker in the West Area Administrative offices.

"I'm not sure at this time what I'll be doing in the future," Mrs. Miner said. She said she wants to wait and see what is available.

In the meantime, she said her husband, Alpheus, a diesel mechanic at Talisman Sugar Corp., is somewhat relieved to see her finish her college career.

"He's cooperated all along," she said, "but he is glad to see an end to all that traveling back and forth."

Mrs. Miner said she is the mother of six children, aged 12 through 27, and her youngest children can't imagine why she wanted to go back to school, since they'll be glad to get out. "I have my cap and gown all ready," she said, "and I want my whole family there at the graduation. I think it could set a good example for them."

Glades Teacher Outstanding

A Belle Glade teacher has been named among the Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America and his name will be included in an annual volume released by the national group with the same name.

Willie Ulysses Walker of 1241 S.W. Ave. C, is a sixth grade teacher at East Lake School in Pahokee.

Walker was nominated for the honor by his principal and was selected on the basis of his professional and civic achievements.

Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America is an annual awards program honoring distinguished men and women for their exceptional services, achievements and leadership in the field of elementary education.

Each year, the biographies of those honored are featured in the awards volume, "Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America."

Walker and others named the honor are now eligible to receive the Outstanding Elementary Teacher of the Year award trophy. Five $55 unrestricted grants will be awarded to the schools represented by America's five Outstanding Elementary Teachers.

Distinguished judges, along with the board of advisors, will select the five individual elementary teachers to be honored.

In this way, the program thanks the teacher and the school for their contributions to the continuing excellence of American education.

"The men and women chosen for this high honor," program director Dr. V. Gilbert Beers said, "have explored new paths, developed new insights and effectively communicated their knowledge to their students and colleagues. They are exceptional teachers."

Walker grew up in East Palatka and entered Florida Memorial College in 1940, where he earned his LLD degree in 1948. He enrolled in Florida A&M in 1947 and received a B.S. degree, returning in 1953 to earn his master's degree in education. Walker began his career in education as principal of Bursley Elementary School in Bursley, Ga. in 1949, serving three years, before going to Central Academy High School to teach junior high science classes in 1945 where he served until 1951.

The next school term he was a member of the Douglas Brown Junior High School faculty as a science teacher until 1953.

Returning to Florida in 1954, Walker became a sixth grade teacher at East Lake School. After nine years in this position, he became principal of Bryant Elementary School in the Pahokee area.

Two years later, he became administrative assistant in the new Pahokee Elementary school. Following a reorganization of the area schools, he returned to East Lake School as a sixth grade teacher.

Walker is a member of the Palm Beach County Classroom Teachers Association and the National Education Association.

He is a member of the most worshipful Prince Hall, AF and AM of Florida, attends the Bethany Seventh Day Adventist Church of Belle Glade and he is president of the East Lake School Faculty Club.

He has received certificates from the United Teaching Profession CTA, FEA and NEA in 1973-74. He received a grant from Florida State University in 1967 and the Elite Community Club bestowed upon him its Service Award in 1970.

Inquiring Gardener

Q. Is there going to be another course in tropical gardening this spring?

A. Yes. Because of the tremendous response we have had for our garden classes, we will have a second series running during the month of April. Our March classes should be filled by the time you read this.

Our April classes are being held in both the north end of the county and the south end of the county. Five weekly seminars will be given beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the two following locations: Every Tuesday evening in April starting April 2 at the North Palm Beach Village Hall, 501 U.S. 1, North Palm Beach, and every Thursday evening in April starting the first Thursday in May starting April 4 at the Boynton Beach Junior High School Cafeteria, 461 NW 2nd Avenue, Boynton Beach.

The five classes will cover ornamental plant identification, uses maintenance and propagation; lawn grasses, their diseases, insects and maintenance; interior plants; citrus culture; hanging baskets and fertilizers.

If you are interested, contact Mr. Eddie Knox, Knox Feed and Supply, 830-3651. He is Treasurer for the Garden Supply Dealers who are sponsoring our garden classes.

Q. What is happening with the lethal yellowing disease on our palms? I understand that there is a cure now.

A. This is not true. There is no cure for lethal yellowing, at least at the present time. The antibiotic treatment that is being used only give a temporary remission of the disease. The treatment is not readily available to homeowners and since the tree would need to be treated possible two to three times a year for the life of the tree the procedure could be very costly.

The insects vector that is set. The pest spray should be three to four weeks later. The fourth spraying would be May 1 to 15 for all varieties. The midseason and late varieties should have a fifth spraying in June and the late ones again July 15. These copper applications are for control of avocado scab and cercospora spot.

Mangos-Anthraxnose is the most important disease of mango in Florida. It is more prevalent during periods of heavy dew and rainy weather. It can be prevented by maintaining a coating of neutral copper fungicide on the tree. Applications should be made weekly from the first appearance of the patches until all fruit have set. From fruit set until mid-May for early varieties in mid-June for late varieties, the spray should be applied once a month. This spray program will also control mango scab.

Citrus-It is best not to spray citrus trees when they are in bloom. However, many times there is a heavy build-up of aphids, scales or whiteflies on the tree a spraying is necessary. In these instances, apply malathion at the rate of 2 teaspoons per gallon of water to the tree, particularly the new leaves, making the application as late in the afternoon as possible. The late day application minimizes the danger of killing the pollinating insects.

Farm Front

BY DOYLE CONNER

There has been a recent upsurge of interest in vocational agriculture among high school students across the nation. A new image of agriculture seems to be emerging as young people see agriculture as many fields of work in addition to farming.

As vocational agriculture programs expand in high schools, there is a need for more teachers, and the job picture looks excellent for these teacher candidates. While teachers in other specialties may have to scramble for the available jobs, agriculture teachers are in prime demand.

Florida now has about 500 vocational agriculture teachers in 320 separate programs, and the Department of Education says that we could have a critical teacher shortage next fall. We will need an additional 75 to 100 vo-ag teachers as enrollment rises.

In the 1972-73 school year, about 35,000 students were enrolled in vocational agriculture in Florida. In the current year there is an enrollment of about 40,000 and next year expects to bring about 44,000 into the program.

Florida universities turn out about 35 agriculture education majors a year. The Department of Education hopes that agricultural education enrollment in colleges in the future will equal the annual increase in need for teachers.

Reasons for the upsurge in vocational agriculture programs probably are many. One seems to be that vocational agriculture programs used to come under the old Smith-Hughes Act and were limited as to curriculum.

They excluded non-farm agriculture. This restricted view tended to be shared by vocational counselors, educators and the public in general. As a result, agricultural education was in danger of being phased out of our public schools for lack of interest.

Then in 1963 Congress passed a new vocational education act that made it possible for high school students to enroll in any field of knowledge or skill useful to agriculture. This meant greater flexibility of curriculum design and opened the way for many students who otherwise might have overlooked a career in agriculture.

The vocational agriculture programs in Florida cover the entire spectrum of agriculture, from production, marketing, processing, service industries, sales-the whole range.

Also helping vocational agriculture programs is the new image of agriculture. People are not taking their food supply for granted any longer, and that attitude helps improve agriculture's image.

Cissy Edith Gilmer Schwarzenberg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schwarzenberg of 410 S.E. 4th Ave., South Bay. She entered Glades Day School in 1969. Clubs, teams, activities include Drama Club, Spirit Club and band. Her hobbies include sewing, horseback riding and swimming. Church and other Club activities are P.W.A., of Summer in Belle Glade. Her plans for the future are to go to P.B.J.C. and study business. She belonged to Rainbows and Girl Scouts. Her plans for the summer are to attend P.B.J.C. and work at Everglades Federal.

Fliehs Hosts Glades Auxiliary

The Glades Auxiliary of The Children's Home Society of Florida were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Don Fliehs and family on Sunday, June 2 for their second annual "Swimline". After an afternoon of swimming, everyone enjoyed a potluck supper and barbecue.

Members attending include: The Donald Bailey Family, The Glenn Bair Family, The John Hundley Family, The Earl Meridith Family, The Paul Oren Family, The John Pitts Family, The William Schoenfeld Family and The Bob White Family.

Guests were Mrs. Robert Fliehs of Belle Glade and Ms. Lela Vargo of Miami.

Social Security Runs New Program

The new supplemental security income program for people 65 or over, or blind, or disabled is run by the Social Security Administration—but it's not the same as social security, according to Ernest P. Fitzpatrick, social security district manager in West Palm Beach.

"Supplemental security income payments are based on financial need," Fitzpatrick said. "Social security benefits are based on work and earnings." The amount of a monthly supplemental security income payment depends on whether a person has other income, according to Fitzpatrick.

"Social security retirement, disability, and survivors benefits are paid to eligible workers and their families regardless of income other than earnings," he said.

The amount of a monthly social security payment is based on the worker's average earnings over a period of years.

Social security is financed by contributions from workers, employers, and the self-employed. Supplemental security income payments are financed by general revenues—not by social security contributions.

"About three out of five people getting supplemental security income checks also get small social security checks," Fitzpatrick said.

A person 65 or over, or blind, or disabled who lives alone and has limited resources and no other income generally gets a Federal supplemental security income payment of $410 a month, and a couple gets $210. "People with other income may get reduced supplemental security income payments," Fitzpatrick said. Starting in July 1974, Federal supplemental security income payments to eligible people with no other income can be as high as $146 a month for one person and $219 for a couple.

Library News

by Donna Ruth, Librarian

Children and their parents should begin thinking about activities for the summer months. One worthwhile and wholesome activity for children this summer will be the Belle Glade Municipal Library's Summer Reading Club. The club activities will get under way the 18th of June. This year's theme will be follow the reader around the world. On Saturday, there will be a children's movie time at the municipal library. Admission is free and children of all ages are invited. The library during the summer will cut back its hours. Starting the week of June 10 the library will be open only two nights a week, Monday and Tuesday nights. Summer hours will be Monday noon-8 p.m., Tuesday 9 a.m.-9 p.m., Wednesday Saturday 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Congratulations and best wishes to all the graduates!!!

Tackle Club to Hold Tournament

The Lake Okeechobee Tackle Testers fishing club will hold its second tournament Saturday following the new organization's success with its first contest a few weeks ago according to Walter Parker.

The club, dedicated to chalking more and bigger bass, will begin its second tournament, a member-quest outing, at 6 a.m. when an estimated 24 anglers in 12 boats leave Pahokee Harbor.

It will end at 6 p.m. Saturday, the official weigh-in time. Weighmaster Mrs. Robert Aldridge checks the weight on the last entries.

Parker said entry fees for the tournament will be $10 a boat. Proceeds will be split four ways with 50 per cent going to the boat with the most bass, in pounds, 20 per cent to the boat with the next most fish, 10 per cent to the fisherman with the largest bass and 20 per cent to the club's coffers.

The club is an affiliated member of the Bass Angler Sportsman's Society, a national bass-buff organization.

DURALITE

FOR MASONRY

Seals, protects and gives beautiful color to all masonry surfaces, such as brick, cement block, stucco and asbestos siding. DURA-FLEX ACRYLIC HOUSE PAINT produces a "breathing" type film which allows moisture within the substrate to escape in the form of vapor while protecting the surface from water from the outside.

... AND WOOD

DURA-FLEX ACRYLIC HOUSE PAINT flows on so easily to provide a blister-resistant low sheen finish for all wood siding, trim, shakes and paneling. It dries within an hour, greatly reducing the chances of dust or insects sticking to the surface. Whites stay white, colors stay bright, your home stays beautiful year after year.

Belle Glade Heart Volunteers Honored

BELLE GLADE RESIDENTS TAKING PART IN ANNUAL HEART MEET...on coast were the John Thompsons, the Edward Dudas and the Dudley Barnes.

Two Belle Glade women were honored May 30, at the annual meeting of the Heart Association of Palm Beach County.

Speaking at the Sailfish Club in Palm Beach, Thomas R. Shahady, chairman of the board of the Heart Association, expressed his appreciation to Mrs. Dudley Barnes and Mrs. Edward Dudas, for their volunteer time with Heart.

Mrs. Barnes was chairman of the Glades Heart Ball held in February and was awarded a plaque. She also received a certificate of appreciation for the Omicron Iota chapter of the Beta-Sigma Phi Sorority, awarded them for sponsoring the fundraising event.

Mrs. Dudas has been Heart Sunday chairman in Belle Glade for six years and is a member of Heart's board of directors.

Summer School Program Set at Ten Area Schools

Summer Enrichment, recreational and summer academic school programs will be held in 10 schools in the Glades area this year according to Walter T. Lock, director of instruction for the West Area.

Summer Enrichment and recreation programs will begin registration June 14 at the schools where they are being sponsored. The two programs will be conducted the six weeks on June 17-July 26.

The summer enrichment programs, designed to provide enrichment and learning activities for children of both public and private schools during the summer months, will offer a broad program planned to include activities for children with varying needs and abilities.

The informal atmosphere of the summer enrichment program can be conducive to motivating children who show limited progress during the regular school year.

Elementary summer enrichment learning centers will be Belle Glade and Pahokee Elementary Schools, and will be open to children presently attending kindergarten, those entering the first grade next year and those presently attending K-4 school.

Other centers will be the West Area Exceptional Child Education Center at Governor Elementary School, East Lake School, featuring physical education, industrial arts and arts and crafts.

Glades Central will offer physical education, music and driver education while Lake Shore Junior High School will offer swimming and physical education and Okeechobee Center will offer physical education.

Rosevalds Elementary will offer physical education and arts and crafts while Pahokee Jr. Sr. High School will offer swimming and physical education.

The 1974 Academic Summer School classes will be housed at Pahokee Jr. Sr. High School with course offering available to students in grades 7-12.

Students in grades 10-12 may earn one full credit while students in grades 7-9 may take two classes. The academic program will include science, math, English, social studies and driver education. Registration for academic summer school will also take place June 14. First semester classes begin June 17 and end July 3, including classes on the Saturdays of June 22 and 29. Second semester classes begin July 8 and end July 26.

St. Peters Graduates First

The first graduating class of St. Peter's Lutheran Elementary School were presented with their diplomas on Monday during ceremonies held at Jameson Hall of the Community United Methodist Church.

The diplomas were presented and awarded by Robert Pease, chairman of the Board of Education. The class numbered 16 graduates. Of the 16, two students have been enrolled at St. Peter's since the kindergarten grades.

These two are Lauri and Sammy Duda. Pamela Pease has been at St. Peter's since the first grade and has grown up with the school.

A special feature of the program was the return of the Rev. Richard Roseman as the guest speaker. Pastor Roseman was instrumental in organizing the school in 1967. He was presented with an award by Mrs. June Duda, chairman of the school's PTO. The school yearbook, called "The Eagle's Nest", was dedicated to Pastor Roseman. He was pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church from 1964 through 1969 and is now at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Barrow.

As a part of the same program, the kindergarten class was also awarded with diplomas. The kindergarten's diplomas were also presented by Pease.

Art Show Under Way

Glades Central High School teacher Junior Allen Collins goes over some last-minute touchup with his art students who now have a collection of paintings on display in the Bank of Belle Glade lobby. Collins said his night students range from beginners through advanced students who have been with him for the last six or seven years.

Glades Migrant Education Teacher Is Outstanding

A Glades area teacher, the first ever to be awarded a plaque by the state as the Outstanding Service Award in Migrant Child Education Language Arts program, said she feels Florida leads the nation in migrant education.

Mrs. Sandra Baldwin (I'm liberated enough, I don't have to use "Ms.") recently returned from a national migrant child education in California where she said migrant teachers from all over the country are impressed by Florida's program.

Mrs. Baldwin supervises nine tutors assigned to the migrant education language arts program at Pahokee and Capital Point elementary schools.

She said she was shocked to find in California that many teachers were jubilant because they have only recently been able to meet with the tutors they supervise one day a month.

"They were delighted about that," she said, "but I was shocked because I meet with my tutors every day."

Mrs. Baldwin said she attended the convention, along with three other award winning migrant teachers from Florida, because she had been chosen among the four outstanding teachers to receive awards.

This is the first time Florida has given out such awards and Mrs. Baldwin said no other state has begun the practice yet, but educators at the convention felt it was still another innovative first for the state which will be followed up in other states.

She and her supervisor, Mrs. Mary E. Jassoy, said one of the reasons Florida is so far ahead of other states is because there are so many migrants who make their home in the state.

"I'd venture to say," Palm Beach County Migrant Child Education Director Walter End said, "Belle Glade has more migrant services in education than any other community in the nation."

End said there are approximately 3,000 children in the county who should be involved in the migrant education program but there are only approximately 2,000 who are.

Of those 2,000, the vast majority are in the Glades and about 800 students have taken part this year in the Language Arts program in which Mrs. Baldwin received her recognition.

The language arts segment of the program is aimed at children from first through the fourth grade, according to Mrs. Baldwin.

As the name implies, the program is designed to improve the skills of students in reading, writing and listening; any and all skills needed to communicate with other persons.

"You'd think nobody would need help in listening," Mrs. Jassoy said, "but a lot of people hear without listening. It's a skill that has to be developed like any other."

Mrs. Baldwin said one of her biggest problems as a migrant education teacher is that most migrants see little value in reading.

"But this is basically a reading-oriented society," she said. "My idea of teaching reading is for enjoyment, not to pass to the next grade. I believe in teaching fun reading."

OUTSTANDING MIGRANT CHILD TEACHER...Mrs. Sandra Baldwin discusses teaching philosophy.

Mrs. Baldwin said the materials usually used to teach children to read, the traditional "Alice and Jerry" books, have no relevance to migrant children because they have nothing to do with the migrant's day to day activities.

To compensate for this, she said a number of new approaches are being used, from "books" written by the children and then read by the others, to "skinny books."

Since many migrant children are behind the rest of their classes in reading skills, Mrs. Baldwin said they are naturally intimidated by the task of reading a book of normal length.

"So we're cutting up a lot of normal sized books into skinny books of three or four pages each," she said, "and we'll give the kids the challenge next year of reading, say, 100 of them through the year."

"I think this is one way of really turning the kids on," she said, "because they won't find it too hard to read three or four pages and then they do read 100 books we'll award them a T-shirt with the words, 'I have read 100 books' and the name of the county on it."

Mrs. Baldwin said one of the reasons she believes the Language Arts program has been so successful the past year is because of the tutors chosen to teach the children.

Each of Mrs. Baldwin's nine tutors are responsible for teaching 15 children in groups of three. Because each tutor is responsible for teaching only three students at a time, they're able to give individual attention impossible in normal-sized classes.

The tutors are persons with a high school education who have been especially trained by the teacher they're responsible to in recognizing and overcoming difficulties peculiar to migrant children.

"Some of my tutors are or have been migrants themselves," Mrs. Baldwin said. "That helps us out a lot because they can relate to the kids so well."

She said the training program for her tutors is an unending one, lasting year-round and several of her assistants even take material home with them to use to teach their own and neighbors' children.

"This is one of the beauties of the program," she said. "The education isn't confined to the children in it, although they're our main consideration. It spreads through and affects the whole community."

And if the problems of teaching migrant children sometimes seem insurmountable, the rewards are also large.

"Teaching the average 5-year old to write his name may not be a big thing," she said, "but when you work and work, and one day, a child with a real learning problem, whatever it is, writes his whole name and says, 'This is my first name and this is my last name, you feel like a million dollars.'"

"And," she said, "I felt as though it's been more rewarding to the tutors towards the last of the year too. It takes time, and earlier in the year, it was hard to see progress but now the tutors can see how far the kids have come."

But while Mrs. Baldwin said there is a reward in just knowing she and the tutors have helped educate a child, the children offer rewards in still another way.

"Many of these kids have gone so long with so little being done for them," she said, "they get to the point they don't think anyone cares about them."

"Then when you do the littlest thing for the, it's like you've done something really great...and they show it."

Karen's Korner

By Karen Hansford

Ever wake up one morning feeling energetic and thinking "Well I'm going to do something really worthwhile today"? Not anything like the seemingly endless housework that's always sitting there screaming at you, but something everyone involved, (maybe almost everyone) will enjoy.

Last Friday I felt that way, so about noon I grabbed my niece and nephew and an "adopted" nephew Bradley Gilliam (if there's such a thing) and took off for Lion Country Safari.

Now everyone knows kids and animals get along great together right? Not so with everyone. Sure, they loved going from cage to cage and looking at the different kinds and they even tried to catch a peacock, who was about as big if not bigger than those three little half-pints chasing them.

But when it came down to hard-core, such as getting inside the cages with some of them, they backed off at first. Finally, after I had dragged them and they had dragged me all over the petting zoo looking at the other animals and riding the train and jeep, Bradley decided he wanted to go inside and pet the baby goats and lambs.

So in I went-my camera, shoulder bag and all three kids, for I wasn't about to leave the other two out of the pen and have them wander off somewhere else. It turned out I might as well have let them go off than for them to grab each of my legs and try to climb up me.

There was immediate bedlam. We had bought a baby bottle so the kids could feed the kids, if you know what I mean. Seems those animals were so hungry or greedy they knocked the bottle out of my hands. Suddenly we were surrounded by eight or 10 of them as I tried to bend down and grab the bottle from one of the goats.

Easier said than done. As I wrestled with the animal, several others decided they were hungry enough to try to eat the little fuzzy ball of yarn hanging from my purse. Incidentally, those fuzzy balls of yarn were holding my purse together. At the same time two were jumping on top of Bonnie and one on Bradley. And to a two-year-old a baby goat leaping up on top of her doesn't look like a baby goat anymore.

In the midst of all this, I looked for Chad fearing that maybe the goats had mistaken him for some food and decided to eat him. Maybe they had abolished him already because I couldn't hear him crying.

And that little rascal, there he was standing there calmly feeding a lamb some food he had found on the ground. He who is scared to walk across rickety footbridges with wide cracks in them!

Needless to say we got out of there fast, but not before the goats tried to follow us out and would have done so if not for some friendly citizens who did their good deed for the day by helping us out and keeping the goats in at the same time.

Bless them! All in all it was a fun day for all four of us. I did get to take some pretty good pictures but anyone who had gotten a picture of us in that pen would have had a prize winning photograph.

I'm not going to go into detail about riding through Lion Country Safari, but I do want to give a word of advice. Don't anyone think they can ride through in a small car with three kids and no air conditioner. The kids might not suffer too much but he will, even if he is used to hot weather and has a fan in the car.

Bass are Striking

There's good news and bad news for Florida's Everglades Region fishermen according to Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission Wildlife Officers who routinely patrol the waters in that area.

The good news involves excellent fishing as extremely low water levels force bass and bream from their normal home areas into canals and homes, giving the licensed angler a much better chance to limit out easily.

Included in the bonus fishing is the removal of bag limits in Dade, Broward, Monroe, and Collier Counties, and that part of Conservation Area Two in Palm Beach County.

The bad news includes a warning to boaters who ply these waters in search of the big fish and limit strings of the lack of water where they might normally fish. A series of chewed-up propellers and damaged lower units on outboard motors should serve as a warning to those who investigate new waters.

This low-water-induced good fishing is drawing boaters to strange waters which in turn produces a gnashing of teeth and a replacement of motors for the careless.

The bass are striking both artificial lures and live baits while the bream fishermen are scoring primarily with live baits.

Wildlife Officers urge fishermen and boaters who want to check out this bonanza of bass fishing to first check out local boating conditions with fish camp operators. The folks who live and work on the water know where to go and where not to go.

Recreation Plan Adopted

The Belle Glade City Commission agreed Monday night to spend $3,500 this summer for recreation in the city and also agreed to at least erect two floodlights in the Lake Shore Park.

In adopting the plan, the commissioners shaved $1,000, one park and one month off the proposed summer recreation program.

City Recreation Director Johnny Rutledge proposed the commission should fund supervisors and equipment for programs at Lyons Park, Hand Park and Lake Shore Park.

Rutledge recommended the city plan on a four month summer program with two paid supervisors at each park. The commission, after discussing cutting the 1973 recreation budget to $2,500, approved two parks to be operated for three months.

The commissioners indicated the parks will probably be Hand Park and Lake Shore Park since that is where the most need is.

Rutledge proposed each park be set up with two horseshoe courts, two badminton courts, a croquet area, a softball diamond, two volleyball courts, a ping pong area, table games and a play area for small children.

He recommended each park be staffed with two supervisors on a seven-hour per day basis, five days a week, opening at 9 a.m. and closing at 4 p.m.

Rutledge said he has talked to Willie J. Haulstead, director of the Glades staff of the Palm Beach County Community Action Council and Haulstead said free lunches would be made available to the children at the parks.

While the commission was discussing the playgrounds, Elmore Williams of 524 S.W. 7th St. asked them to light the Lake Shore park.

"You don't realize what happens in that park at night," Williams said. "You can get knocked in the head if you go through there after dark and the kids are down there using dope and any dang thing."

"You promised me park lights there last year," Williams said, "and you didn't give me that. At least give me a few lights to see what's going on down there."

Commissioner Bill Bailey moved, and the commission approved, to have enough flood lights installed in the park, "to deter the kind of thing he's talking about."

In a related topic, Bailey told the other commissioners he thinks the Central and South Florida Flood Control District was drawing up a detailed plan for city approval to expand the Belle Glade marina and make room for a proposed higher Lake Okeechobee level. FCD officials met with the city commission and other interested agencies several months ago and urged the city to come up with a proposal for a recreation area which would be acceptable to the FCD and everyone concerned.

At that time, FCD director Ed Daile said it would be up to the city to come up with a workable plan and the city subsequently commissioned Adley and Associates to do a study and come up with a recommendation.

The commissioners were presented with a small report early in the meeting Monday night from Adley but Commissioner John Grady and other commissioners indicated they thought the firm hadn't done a thorough enough job.

They had earlier directed Mallory to contact Adley and let the planning consultants know the city wanted a more detailed study.

Bailey said he serves on the Area Planning Committee with an official of the FCD and that official had indicated the FCD is coming up with a detailed plan because the city has failed to do so.

Bailey said he would get in touch with the official and try to find out just what the FCD has planned.

CUBANAS EJEMPLARES

Por Ramon Corona

Muy orgullosa se siente la comunidad cubana de Belle Glade de sus mujeres y de sus hombres, por su honradez y por su tenaz dedicación al trabajo.

Dos altas damas, inteligentes y dotadas, compatriotas, las Sras. Merida y Luisita Blanchard, han establecido el primer curso para perfeccionar el idioma español. La lengua de Cervantes se va olvidando poco a poco y estas señoras desean que los cubanos no pierdan el idioma castellano y que los americanos lo aprendan. Los adelantos son manifiestos y la otra noche el domingo, se ofreció una fiesta en la que tomaron parte pequeños actores y lindas actrices. Un niño norteamericano estuvo de narrador y hablaban el español con fluidez de un bachelier de Salamanca. Se representaron, en esa noche de fiesta, escenificaciones de cuentos infantiles, algunos compuestos por los propios alumnos.

Una nutrida concurrencia aplaudió, con entusiasmo, a los de los niños cantantes. Felicitamos, cordialmente, a Luisita y Merida por su patriótica tarea porque es una verdadera pena oír a los cubanos hablar, solamente, el inglés y silenciar el lenguaje nativo. A estas altas damas mantienen el corazón lleno de cubanía, merecen una placa.

Durante el acto, celebrada en el hall de la Iglesia, desfiló, graciosamente, el papel de maestra de ceremonia, la distinguida señora Rita Tomeu. Nuestras felicitaciones estúvieron a Merida, Luisita y Rita por el triunfo acontecido y nuestros nuevos aplausos a las diminutas comediantes que nos hicieron pasar una noche deliciosa.

Y aquí va el nombre del alumno, muchos de los cuales recibieron justos premios:

Actrices: Patricia Perez, Mari Blanchard, Sofia Bueno, Lourdes Cano, Lily Blanchard, Lourdes Puig, Jose Suarez, Ina Tomeu, Graciela Recio, Ana Maria Latour, Maria Rico.

Actores: Rolando Ramos, Ricky Puig, Octavio Garcia, Juan Ariza, Jorge Martinez, Jose Rodriguez, Raul Garcia, Stephen Castor, Augusto Javier Blanchard, Jose Ignacio Blanchard, Carlos Blanchard, Freddy Alvarez, Adrian Puig, Ignacio Bueno, y Jesus Armas.

Felicitaciones

Felicitamos muy especialmente a los de los graduados más pequeños que tenemos este curso. Se trata de nuestro amigo Jorge Blanchard hijo de Augusto y Merida Blanchard, que en días pasados se graduó de Kindergarten, en la ceremonia llevada a efecto en el Salón de la Iglesia Metodista Community. Muchas felicitaciones a Jorge, y esperamos que se vida pueda ser plena de triunfos, y pueda el alcanzar todas las metas que se proponga en su vida.

MISA A LOS GRADUADOS

El pasado día 26 de mayo en la Iglesia St. Philip Benizi de Belle Glade tuvo lugar la misa a los graduados católicos de la zona. Entre ellos se encontraban los siguientes jóvenes:

Rosie Garcia Iniguez
Celia Echave
Crisel Barbara Perez
Carmen Rivas
Pedro Amador
Greg Kianjac
Terry Zawadzki
Ina Bueno
Jose Luis Guerrero
Tony Alvarez
Angel Cesar Echenuque

Durante la misa el Rvdo. Padre Pablo Saghy le habló a los graduados y luego de terminada esta misa, pasaron al Salón con sus familiares, donde se sirvieron algunos refrescos y donde también tuvieron la oportunidad de oír algunas palabras por el Dr. John Grady.

Queremos agradecer las muestras en esta oportunidad para desearles muchas felicidades por el logro alcanzado y mucho éxito y buena suerte en el futuro.

Italian Foods

El Coro de la Iglesia Metodista de Belle Glade, auspiciará un almuerzo italiano el domingo día 9 de junio, a las 12 del día.

Este almuerzo que constará de "Spaghetti", pan ensalada y le tiene como fin el recaudar fondos para los nuevos trajes de nuestros jóvenes del coro.

Todos los de ustedes que estén interesados en estar fuera de sus cocinas este día, pueden venir y comer en el Jameson Hall, o si lo prefieren pueden llevar su almuerzo a su hogar.

Para tickets, pueden llamar a esta oficina al 996-3293 o al 996-6159, para hacer sus reservaciones.

United We Stand, Divided We Fall

Wrote of the beautiful state of Kentucky, Benjamin Franklin expressed much the same sentiment at the signing of the Declaration of Independence by saying, "We must all hang together, else we shall all hang separately." In a nation as large as these United States of America there is bound to be diverse opinions on almost every subject. Our entire political system is based on two or more parties holding differing views on the methods of attaining and solving the problems that confront our nation. This type of diversity within a society that is united in its respect and obedience of the laws common to all. Let us be determined to "hang together" and remain united by standing up for the law of the land. We will then be able to increase our common interests through the peaceful and orderly discussion of the subjects wherein we hold differing opinions.

Reading Program to be Held

The Mobile Library of the Palm Beach County Public Library System will conduct a summer reading program for elementary school children in the South Bay and Okeechobee Project area entitled "Follow the Reader".

All elementary school children who can read are eligible to join, and may do so by coming to the South Bay Post Office 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. and the Okeechobee Center Office from 2:45 to 4:15 on June 11 and 25, July 9 and 23 and August 6. Children will receive a Follow the Reader membership button, a Reading Record, and a bookmark when they register. After they complete their first book they will receive a certificate of achievement.

All kinds of books are available to read: adventure stories, animal stories, sports stories, mysteries, and if there is something special a young reader wants, the librarians on the "Mobile Library" will be happy to get it.

How to Handle Money

Money and how to handle it will be the subject of an advanced course in the stock market scheduled by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. at 7:30 tonight at the Holiday Inn in Belle Glade.

"This course," Merrill Lynch Account Executive Richard C. Will said, "is designed for people who may be familiar with the market."

"It will tell," he said, "what the professionals in the stock market know and do to make money in today's market."

Will said the course will give a day to day workable and practical method for selecting and trading securities and will show how the professionals evaluate reports and trends, how they act on them, how they make use of charts and why these practices can make money for others.

Will said he feels this forum will be "extremely beneficial" to persons who may have very little time to devote to the study of the stock market.

"There is no charge for coming," he said, "however, admission is by reservation only."

Will said reservations may be made by contacting him at his Palm Beach office.

Middle Age Disability

The statistical figures prove conclusively that those all-important middle years, the chances of being disabled are greater than those of dying. Not a pleasant thought—but a reality.

At age 32, the chance of disability is 6 1/2 times greater; at age 42, it's 4 times greater; at age 52, it's 2 1/2 times greater; does it pay to take this kind of gamble? Ask yourself these questions:

How long can you live if your income stops tomorrow? What's your most important asset? How long is your salary guaranteed if you have to quit and retire tomorrow?

With today's astronomical prices for everything our families need to subsist, maintaining a checkbook balance in the bank, even with a regular paycheck, is a problem. The cessation of a regular family income due to sickness or accident is one calamity which can be avoided. The answer? Disability income insurance.
